Head-on crash in Schuylkill settled for $325K despite speeder's denial of responsibility

A young unemployed Schuylkill County resident was driving home. As he rounded a curve, a sports car traveling at a high rate of speed came across the roadway and caused a head-on crash. The victim suffered multiple broken bones including a left hip fracture. Restricted blood to the hip necessitated a total hip replacement. The driver of the sports car denied responsibility. However, investigation of the accident and documentation of injury by the victim's attorneys, the law firm of Liever, Hyman & Potter, obtained a settlement of $325,000, the maximum available from all available insurance coverage.
