Victim of drunk driver wins multi-million dollar settlement

A middle aged woman was driving home from work at night when an underage intoxicated driver swerved into the path of her car, causing a violent crash. The victim was medevaced to a trauma center where she was treated for multiple serious injuries. Although she partially recovered, she underwent several surgeries including a joint replacement. The Pennsylvania law firm of Liever, Hyman and Potter represented the victim in a lawsuit against the underage female drunk driver and the restaurant that served her. The case was settled for $2,450,000.
